

Bills Now Up To The
GovernorLeaders Predict
Governor Will Cut Them Down

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The power of Gov. Forrest C. Donnell's veto pencil hovered today over the $5,203,467 appropriation by the lame duck legislature which ended a 25-day special session at Saturday's shutdown.

Legislative leaders freely predicted that when Donnell got through with the bills they would be cut down to the total he asked in the first place — about $2,500,000.

If that happens the major casualty will be a $2,000,000 old age pension bill hurried through the closing minutes of the session to repay a part of a 30 per cent pension cut made 18 months ago.

Old age pensioners can expect anything from $5 to $50, depending upon what happens to the legislature's $3,000,000 appropriation.

If Donnell approves it, and Washington matches it with like federal funds, it will mean an average rebate of $50 for each pensioner. However, if Donnell cuts the bill back to $600,000 it will mean $10 apiece for the oldsters, and if the bill isn't signed by him today they may lose their November boost, cutting their total gain from the special session to $5.00.

Asked For $600,000

Donnell asked only for $600,000 for the pension fund. That would restore the cut for November and December. Under his reasoning only current debts can be paid by the state, so he might veto the $2,500,000 balance which would make a retroactive restoration of the cut.

The governor indicated Saturday that he would hold the legislature to current expenses when he vetoed a $10,000 item to pay already-incurred tuition debts for Negro students attending schools outside the state. Donnell cut the appropriation, saying the latter amount would take care of expenses for November and December only.

If he follows the same pattern on all the appropriations he will cut the legislature's funding bills in half — and leave hundreds of thousands of dollars in state debts unpaid. Donnell, acting on an attorney general's opinion that deficiency appropriations were illegal, ignored the state's back debts in his call of the special session.

Legislators Didn't Agree

The legislature didn't agree with him, however, and whooped his bills high enough to pay most of the old claims.

The special session, peopled with lame ducks and rife with criticism of Donnell's fiscal policy, ended Saturday when the members broke a deadlock over the pension bill and another appropriation for tuberculosis hospitals in St. Louis and Kansas City. Both bills, as finally approved, however, exceeded the governor's recommendations.

After the $10,000 veto, Donnell signed intact a $260,935 appropriation for the prison and other penal institutions and a $58,400 allotment for the vehicle registration department, the printing commission, purchase of liquor stamps and pay of special judges. But there were no controversial increases over his recommendations in those measures.

He left in the last of those three bills containing most of the assembly's violations of his anti-back debt stand — the pension appropriation, the $460,875 tuberculosis hospital measure, and an $860,758 catch-all bill for various state agencies.

Postpone Fuel Oil
Rationing Deadline

The deadline on registration for fuel oil ration coupons has been extended until December 10, according to a telegram received today from the state rationing officer, W. H. Bryan, to J. E. Smith, rationing administrator of Pettis county.

All persons may continue to buy fuel oil and coal oil until the 10th, which the message states will be the final deadline. The postponement was necessary because of the failure of certain boards to complete issuance of ration.

Some Gas Users
May Buy Gas
Without BooksThose Unable To Obtain Them May Sign At Station

All applicants for transport, fleet and official gasoline ration coupon books, who have been unable to obtain their coupon books because of the rush at the rationing board's headquarters, may obtain gasoline, pending the issuance of their books, by signing a note at any filling station.

A telegram received this morning by J. E. Smith, ration administrator, from R. E. Gardner, Jr., state ration director, states that users of such vehicles may obtain necessary gasoline by signing OPA form R-555, at any filling station. Where this form is not available at filling stations, applicants may still obtain their gasoline by signing their names to any sheet of paper on which is stated the license number of the motor vehicle and the amount of gasoline obtained. Filling station operators were directed to accept these forms.

Warns Against Gasoline

John Lueck, fire chief, states this afternoon he is receiving reports that many people are buying large quantities of gasoline to store for future use. He calls attention to the following law:

"Gasoline in excess of 5 gallons, exclusive of that in the tanks, of vehicles in storage, shall not be kept within any private garage. That quantity or less shall be kept only in 5 gallon cans approved by the building inspector, and any quantity in excess of 5 gallons shall be kept only in a tank or tanks placed not less than three feet beneath the surface of the ground, and approved by the building inspector.

Danger of Gasoline

Lueck furthermore called attention to the danger of having gasoline around, not alone from fire, but from explosion.

He stated further that if there is a fire, caused from gasoline in a quantity of more than five gallons, the presence of which is not known to the insurance agent who issued the policy, in all probability the insurance company would refuse payment.

Sedalia Center Of Good Business Area

Sedalia is again listed in the Forbes magazine in the December 1 issue as one of the best places in the United States for concentrated sales activities, for collections and other promotion operations of business.

Sedalia is the center of the fifth best high-spot territory in the United States today. Twenty-one other nearby cities make up the territory.

In the territory which includes Sedalia, the gain in business over last year has recently been 24 per cent. This district, with four other high-spot territories, is chosen because, in it, business is farther ahead of last year than any other territory containing 1,000,000 or more population.

Successful Sale
War Bonds Saturday

The Pettis County Women's Division of the War Savings committee, reports the sale of $12,269.30 in war stamps and bonds, in the sixteen booths in that many Sedalia stores Saturday.

This amount, exclusive of all stamps and bonds purchased from banks, postoffice, or other places, is exceptionally fine, according to Mrs. C. A. Wright, chairman.

Negro Woman
Dies Of BurnsClothing Catches
Fire In Home In An Unknown Manner

Mrs. Millie Emory, 80-year-old Negro woman, died at city hospital No. 2 this afternoon, of burns covering her entire body caused when her clothing caught fire in an unknown manner while she was in her room at her home, 204 North Washington about 11 o'clock this morning.

There is a stove in the room and it is believed she accidentally set her clothing afire while trying to start a fire in the stove.

Her aged husband, Joe Emory, was in a room at the front of the house and saw a blaze coming from his wife's room. A kitchen is between the two other rooms. Investigating he found his wife's clothing ablaze as she sat on a trunk in the room, according to his account.

He ripped off her clothes and threw them out of doors and other members of the family brought in water to extinguish the fire, which caused only slight damage to the room.

Others In Home

In the house at the time were Mrs. Emory's step-daughter, Mrs. Nevada Gillum, her daughter, Mrs. Gussie Cannon and Mrs. Cannon's three babies, ranging in age from five months to three and a half years. They all were in upstairs rooms when the tragedy occurred.

Mrs. Gillum hurried next door to the home of Mrs. Lena Anderson, 208 North Washington, who telephoned Dr. A. R. Maddox. Mrs. Emory was rushed to the hospital in McLaughlin's ambulance. Tannic acid treatment was immediately administered.

Dr. Maddox said the elderly woman sustained second and third degree burns, from her legs to her head.

Dr. W. T. Bishop, Pettis county coroner, is making an investigation.

Postpone Hearing
On Gas Rationing

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30.—(P)—Many members of a senate committee failed to arrive from Washington today in time to start their hearing on protests against fuel oil and gas rationing in the middle west and the initial session was postponed until tomorrow.

They had planned to fly here in an army bomber, but will come by train instead.

Senator Hatch (D-NM) the first of the committee to arrive, advocated decentralization of the power to ration oil and gasoline by placing it in the hands of county rationing boards.

He said it was a "grievous mistake to place truck and transport gasoline rationing offices in Detroit, where board members have no conception of the western country and its areas and needs."

OWI Calls On Public Not To Repeat RumorsAmericans Can Help Win The War
By Following Rules

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The Office of War Information called on every American today to help win the war "by toughening his mind and ears" to sensational rumors.

"Every American," OWI said, "can help to win this war by refusing to believe or repeat sensational stories which are not carried by the newspapers or over the radio. Every American can fight the enemy by refusing to spread suspicion and hate in the United States."

OWI, reporting it had analyzed more than 4,500 rumors which came to the attention of various federal agencies in the last 11 months, said they fell into these five general classes:

1. "Have rumors," expressing "prejudice, animosity, or hostility for groups other than the enemy."

2. "Anxiety rumors," reflecting uneasiness or fear which commonly take the form of unfounded reports of allied disaster or weakness, or of overwhelming enemy strength.

3. "Escape rumors," reflecting, in the main, wishful thinking about the progress and duration of the war.

4. "Supernatural rumors," containing fantastic prophecies of disaster or impending miracles.

5. "Curiosity rumors," which contain amusing or novel tid-bits of supposed "news."

OWI Rules

Here are the rules OWI suggests:

1. Do not repeat a rumor. 2. Never repeat a rumor verbally even to deny it.

3. If you know the facts which can spike a rumor, cite the facts promptly.

4. If you don't know the facts which can stop a rumor, ask the rumor-teller where he got his facts.

5. Don't give a rumor the benefit of any doubt.

"The press and radio are fighting rumors—not by endless denying of each rumor, but by blanketting the rumors with authoritative information," OWI said.

OWI found "a relatively low relation" between specific rumors and specific enemy propaganda.

Questions And Answers On Principles Of Rent Control

The following questions and answers set forth the basic principles of federal rent control, which become effective in the Sedalia defense-rental area December 1. The maximum rent date for the Sedalia area is March 1, 1942.

The Office of Price Administration stresses the fact that no tenant is to pay more for his present living quarters than the rent charged on the maximum rent date, if those quarters have not undergone a substantial alteration or change since that date.

Q—What is a maximum rent date?

A—This date marks the level above which rents in general cannot go.

Q—How is the date determined?

A—As far as practical, the date is chosen to reflect rental conditions before "defense activities" shall have resulted, or threatened to result in increases in rents. . .

Q—What is the maximum-rent date?

A—It is the date set by the price administrator in issuing rent regulations in placing a ceiling on rents. In the Sedalia area the date is March 1, 1942.

Q—What does that date mean?

A—It means that the tenant must not pay any higher rent for his quarters than was paid for the same quarters on March 1, 1942.

Q—If the rent was $32 a month on March 1, 1942, is that the highest that now can be charged?

A—That is correct.

Q—If the rent was $32 on March 1, 1942 and has been increased since then to $38, how much should the tenant pay?

A—The maximum is $32 and

The meeting is for the general public, shown to prepare them for the blackout which Sedalia and the county will experience on December 14.

Boston Fire
Death List Now
Reaches 477Sixteen Year Old
Bus Boy Accidentally
Ignited Paper Tree

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—A tiny flame in the hands of a 16-year-old bus boy touched off a lightning-like fire that snuffed out the lives of 477 Coconut Grove night club merry-makers and injured more than 200—many seriously—in one of the nation's worst holocausts.

Deputy Police Superintendent, James R. Chaffin, quoted the youth, Stanley F. Tomaszewski, as saying that he accidentally ignited a paper palm tree that caused the terrific blaze which threw about 1,000 persons into a fighting, clawing panic in efforts to reach safety.

The boy related, Claflin said, that he was trying to replace an electric light bulb which had been unscrewed by a prankster in the recently opened melody room of the club when the match flame brushed the flimsy palm, and set off the devastating blaze.

The flames swept through the highly inflammable decorations as the orchestra leader raised his baton to signal for the national anthem as a prelude to the Saturday night floor show. Within seconds the crowded night club was a bedlam as screaming women and horror-stricken men dashed for exits, tumbling over each other on the jam-packed stairways.

Bodies Five Feet Deep

District Fire Chief William J. Mahoney said that tangled and frightfully burned bodies were found four and five deep and that tables and chairs were scattered and tipped in a shambles among the dead.

As speedily as possible, physicians and specialists in the treatment of burns, mustered by the Boston committee on public safety, were mercifully ministering to the injured, using blood plasma rushed from the Red Cross in Washington and pain and poison-alleviating drugs.

Meanwhile, long lines of relatives and friends stood two abreast outside the city's morgues throughout the cold night waiting for a chance to identify bodies, many of them charred beyond recognition.

A board of inquiry, including fire officials, U. S. navy representatives — there were service-men among the dead — and two representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which began its probe yesterday, reconvened today.

Second Death Toll

The death toll ranked only behind the steamship General Slocum fire of 1904 in New York's East river in theater fire of 1903, which claimed 602 lives, and the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906 in which 500 died.

Deputy Fire Chief John F. McDonough told investigating officials that he found a number of bodies, some within ten feet of a door equipped with a panic lock designed to open under pressure, but it was out of order and had been secured by another lock.

The wrecked stucco building resembled a huge brick oven after the flames had been extinguished.

British and American Forces
Within 12 Miles Of Tunis;
RAF Bombs Italy Early TodaySecond Raid Over
Arsenal City In
36 Hours; 300,000
Of 622,000 Flee

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Home-based British bombers attacked Tunis last night for the second night in succession and found fires started 24 hours earlier still raging in the Italian arsenal city, the air ministry said today.

The attack was made despite bad weather and the raiding force was reported small in comparison with the strong formations which had previously made the 1,500-mile round-trip swing across the Alps to cut at the foundation of Premier Mussolini's war economy.

"Other bombers attacked railway communications in Belgium," the air ministry announced.

It said two planes were missing.

The Italian high command acknowledged in a communique broadcast by the Rome radio that Tunis was a target, but said that the damage was not heavy and that one British bomber fell there.

This was the 23rd raid on northern Italy since the beginning of the war and the 12th since the opening of the new aerial offensive with an assault on Genoa October 22.

Buildings Damaged

The German-controlled Paris radio said many buildings in the center of Tunis were damaged.

More than 100,000 incendiaries in addition to 8,000-pound "block-busters," were dropped over Tunis in the Saturday night raid, and one Canadian pilot who took part said the city's buildings were left "seething as though they were bubbling with molten lava."

The Italian high command added a revealing footnote: damage was great, "especially in the center of the town," its broadcast said, and the number of casualties had not been ascertained nearly 24 hours after the raid.

Reuters, the British news agency, carried a dispatch datelined from the Italian frontier, which reported that 300,000 of Tunis's 622,000 population had fled the city under the repeated air attacks.

Auto Manufacturing Center

Turin has been the principal automobile manufacturing center of Italy, it was second in importance only to Milan as a railroad center, and large airplane factories had been situated there in recent years.

One pilot, whose stick of bombs dropped diagonally across a factory in Saturday night's raid, said that he brought his plane down through heavy anti-aircraft fire to 1,600 feet.

"The long factory sheds looked as if a small boy had carefully drawn his fingers across the sand," he said.

Then the bomb load was released.

"After the bombing it looked as if the same boy had smashed his fist into the lot."

Battle Action Not
Unlike Sports Action

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Nov. 30.—(P)—Americans aboard ships that engaged in action off Casablanca, North Africa, November 8, acted like a "crowded watching a football game," reported Norman Plume, 23, St. Charles, radioman, third class, who was aboard a ship in that area.

"I saw no evidence of fear among the crew members, but there was wild excitement and cheering," Plume, home on furlough, related. "Once when four torpedoes were coming at our ship and we were maneuvering to avoid them, the men on deck yelled words of encouragement.

"Give her a little bit more rudder, boys, and we'll miss them, okay," they shouted to the helmsmen."

Two Killed Sunday
In Car Accidents

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30.—(P)—Two men died and five small children narrowly escaped death Sunday in two St. Louis county automobile-train crossing accidents.

Dead were Norman Huntley, 19, and William C. Riley, 24, both of St. Louis. Their automobile was struck by a Missouri Pacific passenger train.

Several hours later in the western part of the county Delbert Weaver, 33, attempted to push from Rock Island railroad tracks his stalled machine containing five children. A westbound train, traveling slowly, hit the vehicle, overturned it and dragged it 20 feet. Two children were bruised slightly. The others escaped injury.

Applicants For Gas
Books Must Have Little Blue Slip

The gasoline rationing board, which is rushed today issuing gas coupon books, calls attention to the fact that in making application for a book it is necessary for the applicant to have their Missouri State Automobile Certificate, that is the little blue slip issued by the secretary of state. The certificate of title does not have all the information necessary.

Destroyed Enemy
Planes In Island
Of Guadalcanal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—American ground patrols on Guadalcanal island in the Solomons have destroyed "a considerable amount of enemy arms and ammunition," the navy announced today, while army bombers ranging north of the island have heavily damaged a Japanese cargo ship and shot down three zero fighters.

A navy communique said that both the land actions and the aerial attack on an enemy convoy were carried out November 28, Guadalcanal time.

The patrols scored their successes in the upper Lunga river region. The Lunga river runs through the American-held territory around the airfield on the northern edge of the island so that the damage inflicted on the Japs was south of the American flank in the hill country of the island.

The cargo ship which was hit by five bombs dropped from army flying fortresses was part of a convoy which consisted of two cargo vessels and three destroyers.

Ten zeros tried to protect the convoy from attack and in destroying three of them the fortresses, the navy said, "received no serious damage."

Normal Coffee
Trade In City

Normal trade in coffee today was reported by Sedalia grocers as this favorite table commodity went back on the market after a no-selling period since November 21.

Dealers declared they were glad to have a definite program go into effect and found most customers uncomplaining of coffee rationing, now added to the growing list of restrictions of supplies facing the American people.

One pound of coffee per person for those 15 years of age or over is allowed each five-week period, with the current one extending to January 3.

Customers are remembering to bring in their sugar rationing papers which are needed to obtain coffee. Since stamp number 28 is at the top of the coupon sheets, stamp 27 is being used for the first issuances of coffee under the rationing regulations. Stamp 28 will then be used, stamp 25 and then stamp 26.

After a run on coffee before the "freezing" went into effect dealers have in the last week been able to replenish their stocks and sufficient quantities to take care of the sales under a rationing program apparently are on hand.

One dealer reported that his customers had expressed the belief that the coffee allotments are enough to satisfy their customary needs.

Major Schimmel
Rotary Speaker

The Rotary club met today at the Bothwell hotel with the president, L. L. Studer, in charge of the meeting and Emile Landman, program chairman.

The speaker at the meeting was Major John Schimmel, III, who spoke on the military conditions at the army air base near Knob Noster. Major Schimmel's talk was given in a general way and was very interesting. He stated that construction work at the base had just about been completed and from now on it would be strictly training.

The club voted not to have the annual Christmas party but instead to use the money to buy war bonds.

Strain On Axis
Military Resources

VICHY (From French Broadcasts), Nov. 30.—(P)—The Algiers radio was heard tonight broadcasting a report that two French submarines which escaped from Toulon at the time of the German occupation had arrived at Algiers. They were identified as the Casablanca and the Marsouin.

(The Casablanca is a 1,384-ton craft completed in 1935 and designed for a crew of 67. It has a 30-day cruising radius of action. The Marsouin, launched December 27, 1924, normally carried a crew of 51.)

LONDON, Nov. 30.—British and American forces, supported by a rising tide of aerial blows at the enemy on both sides of the Mediterranean, have stormed forward to Tunis in a drive which has all but isolated that city and Bizerte, main Axis-held strong point in Tunisia.

The allied advance was disclosed today by headquarters communique which said fighting now was progressing east of Djedida, which is 12 miles northwest of Tunis on the Tunis-Bizerte railroad. This indicated the allies were driving a wedge straight toward the coast to separate the axis strongholds.

Bizerte was the target of an attack by allied planes which scored hits on the naval base, the communique said, and allied fighters were credited with destruction of four enemy planes in operations over forward areas.

The allied announcement failed to disclose the extent of thrust toward Tunis but the Morocco radio said yesterday that the allies already were within cannon range of that capital of Tunisia.

Absence Of Reports

Being astride the railroad, these forces have cut the only link between the axis defense zones except for the coastal road. Absence of reports of fighting west of Djedida suggested the allies were attacking one town at a time, or were leaving Bizerte to a column advancing along the northern coast.

Simultaneously with the allied assault on the hastily contrived axis defenses in Tunisia, German and Italian communique reported that the 8th Army's tanks struck the first blow at Marshal Rommel's El Agheila line in Libya. The axis claimed these attacks repulsed;

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON (Major Robert S. Allen on active duty)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—More and more the certain Washington bureaucracy are adopting the practices of the dictators which we are supposed to be fighting against—particularly their Gestapo methods.

Most people won't believe it that the Army and Navy today have set a system of recording telephone calls of their own employees and of civilian calls to an extent which staggers the imagination.

All telephone conversations from the Navy to any city outside of Washington are taken down on records. This is true also with a part of the Army and with the War Production Board.

But recently, Army-Navy intelligence agents have extended the practice even to a lot of local calls, including those of newspapers, and of any Army-Navy officer suspected of going higher up to friends in the cabinet.

If, for instance, an Army or Navy officer reports to civilian friends in high places about any injustice or inefficiency inside the armed forces, the "gestapo system" goes after him immediately.

It is against the law to tap telephone wires unless done by the FBI to detect spies or sabotage, and J. Edgar Hoover is extremely careful. His men, with long and careful training, do not infringe on civil liberties unless there is evidence.

But the amateur sleuths, most of them recruited from walks of socialite real estate operators, brokers and blue bloods sometimes indulge in using records of telephone conversations to satisfy personal grudges, influence promotions, or just for the fun of the sleuthing.

The amateur sleuths of the Donovan committee, many of them former socialite appeasers from the state department, follow the same practices of the super-dicks of the Army and Navy.

Note: To what extremes military intelligence carries its suspicions is illustrated by the fact that one soldier, born in this country, whose uncle was shot by the Nazis in an occupied country for refusing to divulge information to the enemy, is now relegated to a virtual detention camp, though recommended highly by all with whom he has served.

Capital Chaff

The Rockefeller committee's use of the National Museum of Modern Art, an adjunct of the Rockefeller family, to produce Good Neighbor motion pictures may be in for some congressional scrutiny. It isn't the question of the money which was spent honestly, but inefficiency in film production . . . Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle once an original Roosevelt brain trustor, now has a brain trust of his own, headed by busy as a bird dog, Ernest Cuneo.

Herbert Hoover's Sword Paul Smith, ex-editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, who resigned as a lieutenant commander in the navy to become a private in the marine corps, tells this story on Herbert Hoover.

They traveled together in Europe extensively about one year before the war started, and during the trip, Hoover was given an honorary degree by a European university. With the degree was presented a sword.

Hoover looked at the sword a little sheepishly, tried to figure out what he should do with it, finally said:

"Just think, Paul, I have been commander-in-chief of the United States army and navy. And till now never have I donned a military uniform, still less a sword. So now how am I to use this sword, especially since no belt has been given with it?"

"Oh," replied Smith, "just hitch it on to your suspenders and nobody will notice it."

Admiral Darlan's support saved priceless time and even more priceless lives. But it had its difficulties. Many members of the European underground which had been working with us against the axis in the occupied countries threw up their hands and got extremely skeptical about playing ball with us in the future.

However, there is definite evidence that Darlan, though an opportunist, several months ago was ready to cooperate with the United States if there was any promise that we would really set up a second front.

Now that we have used Darlan, some people want to throw him overboard immediately. But the weakness of Hitler is that he breaks agreements overnight. Our strength is that we don't break agreements with the anti-Vichy group made earlier, or breaking with Darlan now.

Otto N. Frankfurter, brother of Justice Felix Frankfurter, has resigned from the treasury's procurement division and returned to private business in New York.

Admiral Halsey, tough commander in the South Pacific, got to know the axis as naval attaché in Berlin. . . . German and Italian refugees, grateful for their haven in the U. S. A, recently presented the war department with a $48,500 check to purchase a fighter plane named "Loyalty". Texas Lyndon Johnson, proposing to FDR that Maury Maverick be appointed head of a Mexican-American defense commission, said:

"Would you mind calling up Sumner Welles at the state department and asking him to see Maury?" "Oh," said the president, throwing up his hands, "Sumner just wouldn't understand a man like Maury."

Mind Your Manners

1. If the door of a private room is slightly ajar, is it all right to enter it without knocking?

2. Is it usually better to telephone acquaintances before dropping in on them?

3. If you leave a message for someone to call you, and hours go by and he doesn't call, is it all right to telephone him again?

4. Should you read aloud small items to a companion if he also is reading?

5. Is it correct for a man to introduce two of his friends by saying, "Ralph, I want you to shake hands with Bill Smith?"

What would you do if—

Someone from out-of-town telephones you to say that he is passing your city and wanted to say "Hello"—

(a) Invite him out if you can, and if you can't explain that you aren't going to be at home?

(b) Don't bother to ask him out?

THE STORY: Pastor Aalsen agrees that he will not reveal plans for revolt, although he opposes fighting the Germans. Gunnar Broge outlines his carefully arranged tactics for the battle. In dead silence, the Norwegian fishermen listen—and approve.

TRAPPED

CHAPTER X

"IT IS not done yet," Gunnar told him dryly. "There are many more things to think of. They may get a message out nevertheless. Something may slip up, and we must be prepared for it. But the only reinforcements are to the south. They would have to come over the bridge . . . and repair it in the bargain. If we have men with rifles down in trees at the bend, I think we could stop them from doing that. The main thing is to choose our own time, to fight when we want to, not when they do."

"Ja," cried Hammer, "if we had done this down in Stoksum, things would not have happened as they did."

The men looked at each other more excitedly. What Gunnar was saying was so simple that it appealed to all of them.

"The only way they could get at us would be over the mountains, or by sea, and both those methods would take a great deal of time."

"It's hard to believe," Kjerlof muttered, and coughed again. "What would we get? We kill a few soldiers, and when it's over, we're murdered and set off to prisons, those that are left. And then what have we won?"

Gunnar stiffened. "They can be beaten," he said in a low voice. "They still have thousands of tanks."

"You're in Norway, not in a flat country. They can move tanks only on the roads."

"And as for their planes," said Gunnar, "they are only good against concentrations. You can't bomb ten men on a hillside under the trees. If we fight our own fight, we can make half their machinery useless. In the valleys and towns, in the valleys away from the roads . . . always away from the roads and open places. You don't win wars that way, but you'll make a hundred and fifty thousand men sick of our kind of war."

"Gunnar's plan, as far as it goes, has logic," said the doctor. "But there are still a few points to be worked out."

"One, of course, is how the guns are to be delivered."

"The English will get in touch with you. There are hundreds of their men all through Norway."

They keep in touch with submarines and small ships off shore."

"So we must wait."

The doctor pursed his lips importantly. "More details will have to be worked out when we know better how we stand. The main thing is that we are clear on policy. We are all together. Is that right?"

"Ja, Ja," Mortensen said. "Then there is hope. My son will be free. Did I tell you my Trygve was in prison? But God bless him. Even my wife says so. God bless him."

"Then, later," Gunnar threw in, "we choose men for each post. The only way is to be as exact as possible, and then, even if a few things go wrong, that will not stop us from acting."

"Caution is the main thing right now," said Hammer. "You must learn here in Trollness from the mistakes we made. The same thing must not happen twice. No one outside this room must hear a word. Not one word."

They began getting up, all around the dim, cold room. The air smelled of a night frost. Men pulled up their coat collars and rubbed their hands together.

"There is one other problem," said Knut Osterholm. "My cousin, Hammer, doesn't know the hills back here. And it is impossible for him to stay here with me. The troops may be searching for him at any hour. One of us must lead him up the fjord."

There was a long silence. Each man was thinking of his own warm house, and what a cold, dangerous journey that would be. Then little Kjerlof, who had argued the pastor's case before, pushed his way through from behind. "I will go with him," he said. "I know every path. I can get him to the Swedish border in two days."

They turned toward him in surprise, none of them having thought of him as one who would offer and he reddened, standing in front of the table, fidgeting with his fingers in his little beard. "It is only right," he stammered loudly. "You must realize that I . . . I am the only one without a family."

LONG after the others had gone, Gunnar, Solveig, and Gerd stayed to talk to the doctor. The buxom woman from the hotel was, for the first time in her life, finding a thing she could enter into with her heart (and not only her shrewd head), and she had joined them enthusiastically.

On the far side of the room Knut Osterholm kept pacing back and forth with his cousin, Kjerlof, discussing ways to evade the patrols on the long journey eastward.

After the doctor had taken Hammer aside to dress his wounds again, they packed, ate and drank. Then they shook hands silently all around, and Hammer and Kjerlof, having fastened on their packs and nodded farewell, slipped out the door. The little farmer looked very proud.

Shortly afterward the others left. Stensgard was going up to the hotel with Gerd. Every night for weeks she had been stealing food and having it carried down to town. Usually after midnight, someone would creep up the path and come down a while later, laden with soups, canned vegetables, and sides of meat brought in by the commissariat for the Germany army.

For half a mile all four of them skirted the road toward town, keeping well out of the moonlight. Then the fisherman and his wife went on alone toward home, and Gerd Bjarnesen and the doctor cut up onto the path leading to the hotel.

It was damp with sea wind under the pines. "I go in the front door," Gerd was telling him, "and you slip around to the back. I will meet you at the kitchen entrance."

They climbed fast, keeping a sharp watch for the guards or for soldiers going down to relieve the troops at the dock. Once Gerd stopped him with her hand on his arm. They listened.

At the clearing in front of the hotel they halted again. Crouched behind the trees, they peered at the dark porch, and at the shimmering, moonstruck windows, and back down the path they had just come. The doctor's heart was beating fearfully. He kept holding tightly to Gerd's plump arm. "By God, here is a woman," he was thinking. "She knows how to do these things."

The moon went behind a cloud. It grew cold. The wind rustled in the trees, and all they could hear was the sound of the stiff branches stirring and the rap of their own breathing. "Stop trembling," Gerd whispered.

They hurried forward, quick steps across the open space. Almost at the porch, in front of the gaunt building, they saw a dark figure move out from behind a pillar. Gerd stifled a cry. They ducked back. But at that moment the moon swept free, and in the pale, clear light they saw the tall, black-uniformed figure of Major Ruck, standing on the top step and looking down at them.

Warning Given Italy-Japan By Churchill

Shows Italy Way Of Escape By Repudiating Hitler

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by Dewitt MacKenzie, is written today by Glenn Rabb. Mr. MacKenzie, now traveling in the African war zone, is expected to resume in a day or two.)

Winston Churchill's broadcast yesterday contained the strongest warning he has yet given Italy, delivered in that voice of doom he employs so sonorously and flavored with the richest flow of scorn he has ever turned on Mussolini, who may be labeled for all history by Churchill's fruitfully epithets. But the warning Britain's prime minister gave Japan was no less ominous. While he pointed out to the "hard working, gifted and once-happy Italian people" a way of escape through repudiation of the man who has led them to their present plight, he offered Japan nothing more pleasant than the prospect of facing eventually the combined might of the United States and British armed forces, which then should be far the most formidable array of sea and air power the world has known.

Two Chapter War

First among the major spokesmen of the United Nations Churchill gave expression to the growing conviction that this will be a two-chapter war, that even after Hitler and his satellites have been destroyed in Europe Japan will remain to be dealt with in the Pacific. Many authorities of long experience in the Orient have felt that the Japanese forswore such a contingency from the outset of their audacious challenge to the English-speaking powers and counted on a weakening of the fighting will of their adversaries, on their war weariness and on divisions among them at the European peace conference table to enable Japan to hold what she has snatched. Churchill has replied to these Japanese hopes in terms which leave no doubt that Britain, as long as a Churchill government leads there, will be with the United States to the end of the task of ending the rule of force and aggression in the Pacific as well as in Europe.

Warns Japan

"It may well be," Churchill said, "that the war in Europe will end before the war in Asia. The Atlantic may be calm while in the Pacific the hurricane rises to full pitch. If events should take such a course we should, of course, bring all our forces to the other side of the world to aid the United States, to aid China, to aid our kith and kin in Australia and New Zealand in the struggle against the aggressions of Japan."

Among men who know the situation in the Orient there is a growing belief that this second chapter of the war may be as long, bitter and costly as the first, which will end with the destruction of Hitler. Churchill expressed the deepening conviction that we can not count on the surrender of Japan as an inevitable sequel to the defeat of Germany. There are many who believe that when Japan took her great gamble she discounted fully the possibility that Germany would be beaten. Of course she was ready to seize all the advantages which Hitler's conquests might open to her, such as the bloodless acquisition of French Indo-China. Had Hitler been able to destroy the Red army Japan doubtless would have rushed, jackal-like, into Siberia to feast on the lion's kill. But primarily for Japan the war in Europe was another of those opportunities—the most golden of all—granted her every generation or so by her gods, in which the white powers spring at each other's throats on the other side of the world and give her a comparatively free hand to achieve her purposes in Asia. A long exhausting war in Europe, no matter who wins, probably would be more to the Japanese taste than a speedy, complete axis victory.

Future Uncertain

Events in faraway theaters, so completely overshadowed by the dramatic developments around the Mediterranean and in Russia as to escape mention in Churchill's broad war review, soon may help determine how long and costly the Pacific chapter will be. There may be battles in Burma and southwest China in a very few weeks which will greatly lessen or enhance the United Nations' chances of coming to grips with Japan on a continental scale. If they should increase the isolation of China and rob us of the prospect of meeting the Japanese army on the continent of Asia they may add years to the war.

A revolving door trapped a number of persons when it became jammed by a pileup of bodies, and one body was even found in a telephone booth.

The Boston committee on public safety, which organized under real disaster conditions for the first time, and mortuary officials said that most of the unidentified were women whose flimsy clothing was either burned from their bodies or contained no identification papers.

Catholic priests were on the scene shortly after the fire got underway, administering the last rites of the church to victims. One priest said he ministered to at least 30 persons.

Check Fire Traps

He instructed that investigations be made of all taverns, night clubs and other places of entertainment.

Fire today virtually destroyed the first floor interior of a 2-story brick building housing a tavern, greeting card shop and rooming house. All persons in the building escaped. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

North African Operations A Strain On Axis Military Resources

of the war or be bombed out.

New Tarkets
Tunis, Bizerte and Tripoli were targets of new punishing attacks over the week-end in a prelude to impending assaults by American and British land forces in Africa.

From Vichy came a broadcast that British troops on the Tunisian-Algerian border had been reinforced by armored units, indicating that the all-out allied attack upon the naval base at Bizerte and Tunis, the capitol of Tunisia, might soon be forthcoming.

The sum total of the whole North African operations has been a tremendous strain on axis military resources by making it necessary to rush troops across the Mediterranean and to use other divisions to occupy southern France.

B. P. O. Elks' Memorial Day December 6th

Lodge No. 125 to Participate In the National Observance

The following letter has been received by officers of the local Elks lodge, relative to the national observance of Elks Memorial Day:

"21 West Street Building, New York, N. Y.
"Hello, American!

"Elks Memorial Day this year will be observed on Sunday, December 6th, when all Elks will gather round their altars to honor with proper ceremony, their departed brothers.

"Memorial Day should always be the most solemn, the most reverent and the most dignified of all our services. But this year, especially, extra thought and effort should be devoted toward making the service a memorable one. For it was on Memorial Day last year, December 7th, that our enemy made his brutal and dastardly attack on Pearl Harbor, and plunged us into the maelstrom of war. So, while we are remembering our dear departed brothers, some of whom died as a result of that treachery, let us not forget those others in our armed forces, who are not members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, but who made the supreme sacrifice.

"In order that a large attendance will be assured, the service should receive as much publicity as possible. Details should be posted on lodge bulletin boards in advance of the date, and local newspapers should be fully utilized. Other patriotic and fraternal organizations, should be invited to participate.

"The program should follow the ritual as laid down. The rendition of the ritual, the eulogy and the musical program should be so arranged and delivered as to fully express the spirit of the day.

"Many lodges have special features to enhance the beauty of their services and to lend added solemnity to the occasion. . . .
"In conclusion, let me urge that this year above all, everything possible be done so that our Memorial Day service will be a thing

The Ration Situation 12 Months After Pearl Harbor

TIRES	AUTOS	GAS	SUGAR	COFFEE	MEAT
First product rationed. Sales frozen in December, 1941, but soon all drivers may be able to get some sort of tires.	Production stopped on new cars, now rationed to essential users. Bicycles also rationed, but used cars aren't.	Gasoline rationing, begun in oil-short East, now nationwide to save tires. Fuel all rationed in several states.	First food rationed. War needs and loss of sources forced rationing last May at half-pound weekly per person.	Coffee finally rationed after months of shortage in grocery stores. Tea, cocoa shortages also developing.	Present shortage in pork, beef, bacon and other meats may postpone rationing at about 2 1/2 pounds weekly per person.
DAIRY PRODUCTS	CANNED GOODS	DRIED FRUITS	CLOTHING	HOUSING	TOOTH PASTE TUBES
Milk, butter, cheese shortages loom as U. S. freezes some stocks, sends more to armed forces, lend-lease.	Government bars cans for many foods. Grocers limit purchases of other canned goods because of shortage.	Raisins, prunes hard to get because of armed forces needs. Bananas scarce because of shipping shortage.	Less wool, fewer vests, no cuffs, no frills in suits and dresses. Silk stockings, girdles, zoot suits out.	Building materials, plumbing, new house construction limited to needs of war plants, war workers and armed forces.	Metal tubes scarce, so one must be turned in for each new tube of toothpaste, shoe cream, etc., purchased.
REFRIGERATORS	MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS	ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES	LAWN MOWERS	TYPEWRITERS	JUKE BOXES
Electric refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and other household items out.	Manufacture of musical instruments, radios, phonographs stopped. Horns go to armed forces.	Production stopped on electrical appliances like waffle irons, toasters, irons, fans, mixers, etc.	No more lawn mowers because war plants need the metal. Get in scrap to mow down Japs.	Typewriters rationed. Production limited or stopped on many types of office equipment.	Juke boxes out for the duration. Jitterbugs can expend excess energy riding the war effort.

This is how it is on the home front after a year of war. The average man finds many of the things that were commonplace in pre-Pearl Harbor days are now scarce, rationed or out for the duration. First it was tires, rationed after Japs seized the sources of our rubber; then cars, as plants went over to war work; next metal objects, as iron and steel went to the Army and Navy. Some foods have become scarce because armed services and lend-lease are dipping deeper into our larder or because limited shipping facilities slow transport of items like coffee and bananas from abroad.

ized. Other patriotic and fraternal organizations, should be invited to participate.

"The program should follow the ritual as laid down. The rendition of the ritual, the eulogy and the musical program should be so arranged and delivered as to fully express the spirit of the day.

"Many lodges have special features to enhance the beauty of their services and to lend added solemnity to the occasion. . . .
"In conclusion, let me urge that this year above all, everything possible be done so that our Memorial Day service will be a thing of beauty and a source of comfort to the families and friends of our departed brothers, and to the end that all the dead of our fighting forces will be included in the promise that "An Elk is never forgotten—never forsaken."

"Carry on, my brother, America needs Elksdom.
"Lodge Activities Committee, "George I. Hall, Chairman."
Hugo Spahn is the general chairman of a committee to provide the program for the local lodge which will be held in the Elks' Home at Fourth and Kentucky and will be open to the general public.

Glancing At Big Six Diary For High Spots

Football Season Will Soon Receive A Proper Burial

By Frank Wood

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30—(P)—The epitaph is ready, and a turbulent Big Six football season will receive proper burial after the final Iowa Pre-Flight-Missouri, and William and Mary-Oklahoma games this week.

The epitaph, naturally, will be a simple, one-line affair reading, "Kansas State 19, Nebraska 0." No other sentiment so completely expresses the true uncertainty and near futility of the conference's first war-time grid venture.

Missouri and Oklahoma will be underdogs in their anti-climatic struggles Saturday, but a 100 to 0 score either way would cause only mild eye-bating after lowly Kansas State white washed Nebraska last week in the upset to end all upsets.

With the campaign nearly finished a glance through the Big Six diary to catch the high — and low lights — of the season might be in order.

Sept. 7 — Teams started practice full of vim, vigor and sophomores. Squads smaller and the schedule heavier.

Sept. 14 — Coach Don Faurot accidentally tackled in Missouri scrimmage. Faurot leg in cast for four weeks.

Sept. 19 — Iowa Pre-Flight 61, Kansas 0. (New scoring record).

Sept. 26 — Texas 64, Kansas State 0. (No scoring record).

Oct. 3 — Fort Riley 21, Kansas State 7. Potent Missouri "T" formation accounts for five of the six touchdowns in Colorado game. Stan Hendrickson, Colorado end, steals ball from Tiger quarterback and scoots 74 yards to score.

Loss On Same Day

Oct. 10 — Duquesne 33, Kansas State 0. All of the Big Six teams lose on the game Saturday for first time in history. An army plane roars low over the stadium, Oklahoma's center passes the ball on the wrong goal signal and the Sooners miss a first down on the Texas 8-yard line. Texas 7, Oklahoma 0.

October 14 — Mike Michalske replaces Ray Donels as head coach at Iowa State in the staid Cyclones first mid-season change in history.

Oct. 10 — Missouri 47, Kansas State 2. Oklahoma finally scores and whips Kansas 25 to 0. Kansas wolves begin their annual chant. Oct. 24 — Kansas 19, Kansas State 7. Nebraska 7, Oklahoma 0. Bob Steuber of Missouri scores 20 points against Iowa State to become national scoring leader with 83 points.

October 31 — Wichita 9, Kansas State 0.

Nov. 7 — Oklahoma 76, Kansas State 0. (New scoring record). Oklahoma makes good on 10 extra point tries.

Tie For Title

Nov. 14 — Indiana 54, Kansas State 0. Oklahoma 6, Missouri 6. Oklahoma misses lone extra point and a tie for the Big Six title.

Nov. 17 — Coach Mike Michalske tells his Iowa Staters he fears

Call Before Seven

If You Don't Receive Your Democrat

If your Democrat has not arrived at the usual hour call the newspaper office and one will be brought to your home. All calls must be in the office, however, before seven o'clock in the evening, and before 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, as the special carrier leaves the office on those hours.

Kansas State despite the Wildcat record.

Nov. 21—The Iowa Staters see what Michalske means. Kansas State 7, Iowa State 6. Fordham sends Missouri's bowl game hopes soaring—down the river.

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(P)—Look for a tremendous turnover in football coaching before next season (if there is a next season).

The news that Dick Harlow of Harvard and Jack Hagerty of Georgetown had joined the navy gave a hint of what you can expect. Dartmouth's Tuss McLaughry and Syracuse's Ossie Solem both are looking for commissions and plenty of others will pursue the same search now that the season is virtually over. One sure thing, the army and navy doctors won't have to worry about weak hearts in any of the coaches who got through this season. After scanning the latest bunch of scores, we'd hardly be surprised to see the Redskins lick the Bears 73-0 in the pro playoff.

Today's Guest Star

Ken Alyta, Waterbury (Conn.) Republican: "Joe Falcato, noted New York bowler, has rolled 57 perfect 300 games. There was a time when we threatened to roll 300 57 games."

Service Dept.

Four of the five first-stringers on Oregon's famous basketball "Alleycats" are in service now for active duty by the army air corps. Wally Johansen, Bobby Anet and John Dick are in the navy but Slim Wintermute still is looking for a recruiting officer who will overlook his six feet, eight inches. . . . When Pvt. Honey Melody, boxing coach at Fort Sheridan, Ill., thought he had spotted a promising light-heavyweight prospect recently, the guy turned out to be Sgt. Charles Hobday, former National A. A. U. champion, who "hoped" he wouldn't be too busy to try out for the team. . . . Lieut. Nathan B. Eubank of the South Plains Army Flying School at Lubbock, Tex., had only two weeks to get together a football team to play the Lubbock Army Flying School team. He thought he had done pretty well when his team only lost 20-0. Then nearly all his players, including Bob Gude, former Vanderbilt center, were transferred to a new field. The lieutenant says he'll concentrate on basketball from now on.

Hot Coffeyville

The Coffeyville (Kas.) junior college football team has just won the Kansas State Junior College Football championship for the third consecutive year and has a winning streak of 26 straight games. . . . No wonder we have coffee rationing.

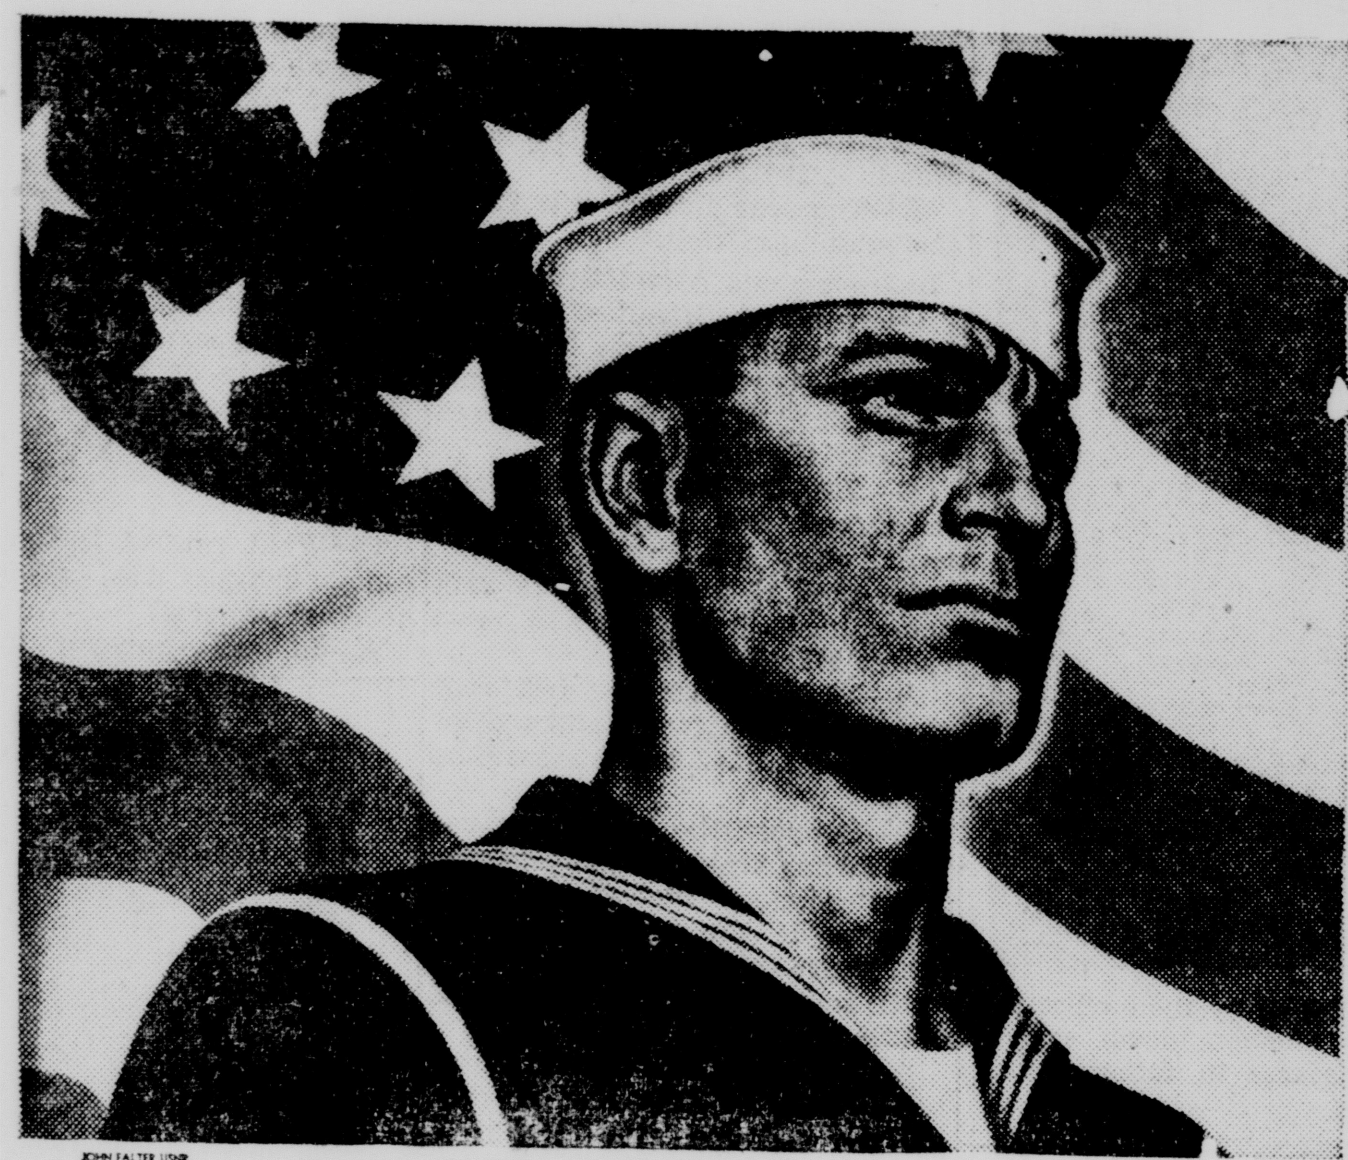

In Training

He'll be a muscular tyke if he starts his gymnastics at the tender age of six months. He can too, if he's gifted with a cradle gym which features a priority-free flexible plastic bar with attached, dangling circular handles.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 6, 1942.

Golden Text: Psalms 86: 9, 10. All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "My soul, wait thou only upon God: for my expectation is from him. God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God" (Ps. 62: 5, 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot fathom the nature and quality of God's creation by diving into the shallows of mortal belief. We must reverse our feeble flutterings—our efforts to find life and truth in matter—and rise above the testimony of the material senses, above the mortal to the immortal idea of God" (p-262).

Questions And Answers On Principles Of Rent Control

that is all the tenant can pay.

Q—Will the tenant receive a rebate covering the amount he paid over the maximum up to the time the regulations went into effect?

A—No, there will be no rebate, but henceforth he will pay no more than the maximum.

Q—Although the rent was $32 on March 1, 1942, the present tenant moved in some months later and has always paid $38. What is the maximum rent?

A—The maximum is still only $32. It doesn't matter who paid the rent on the maximum rent date. The rent must not exceed the amount charged on that date.

Q—How will the tenant know what the rent was on March 1, 1942 if he has moved since then?

A—He can learn this directly from his landlord or through the registration statement that the landlord files with the local rent director. False information in this statement will subject the landlord to criminal penalties.

Q—What is to be done if landlord and tenant cannot agree or determine what the rent was March 1, 1942?

A—The rent director acts to fix the maximum rent.

Improvements Affect Rent

Q—Is not the landlord entitled to some additional rent if he has made substantial changes and improvements in the property since the maximum rent date?

A—Yes, the regulations set up machinery for handling exceptional cases like this.

Q—How is the maximum rent determined if the house was vacant March 1, 1942?

A—In that case the last rent charged in the two months prior to March 1, 1942 is the maximum rent.

Q—Suppose the house was vacant during those two months, too. What happens then? And what happens if the owner occupied the house and did not rent it until some time after March 1, 1942?

A—In either case the rent cannot exceed the first rent charged for the quarters after March 1, 1942. However, as a protection to the tenant against an excessive charge, the landlord must file a special report with the local rent director in these cases and the rent director may reduce the maximum rent if the charge was out of line with what comparable housing accommodations were bringing on March 1.

Q—What is the maximum rent for a new house or apartment completed after March 1, 1942?

A—If the housing accommodations were completed between March 1 and the time federal rent control became effective, the maximum rent is the first rent charged to the occupant of the new quarters. But here, again, the landlord must report the case to the rent director, who has authority to adjust the maximum rent to the March 1 level.

Must Petition For Change

Q—Suppose the house wasn't completed until after federal rent control became effective?

A—At least 15 days before the place is to be rented, the owner must petition the local rent director to set the maximum rent.

Q—On what does the director base the rent?

A—He bases the maximum on the rent for comparable houses on March 1, 1942. He also must make allowances for increases in cost of construction since that date.

Q—What about houses or apartments constructed under government priorities for materials?

A—In that case the maximum rent is the first rent charged but in no event can it be more than the schedule of rents which the War Production Board required the builder to submit before the board would grant the priority rating.

Q—What control is there over rents charged in government housing projects?

A—In all housing projects, whether owned or operated by the federal, state or local government, the rents must conform to those charged in the area on the maximum rent date.

Q—Does the rent director have authority to set maximum rents for government housing projects?

A—Yes.
